

Auckland MBS Alumni CNY Party 5 February 2011 – A roaring success!

It was 6.00 am start for Lum Kok Kong and Joanne Lum. They were under great pressure to catch the free range snappers for the Yue Sang. I think we landed the first legal size fish at about 8.30 am and Kok Kong was relieved. When the last piece of squid was finished, a live mackerel was sacrificed but we soon discovered that the shashimi bait didn't work. The snappers were clearly not the Japanese variety. We had to up anchor reluctantly at about 10.00am when the fish were active to do the spit and Yue Sang

The "Look fire" crew making sure that the lamb is cooked nicely.... Count the number of bottles of beer.

Cooked like the pro!

The number of beer bottles has increased in the "Look fire" crew quarters. The cooler for the beer has got closer too.

4.5 hours later....isn't she beautiful...we mean the youngest MBSian off course.

Yue Lai Ming took the bus from Whangarei to join us – (Jeffrey Yue's lovely daughter)

You don't think we have Yue Sang huh?
This is the world famous in New Zealand
Yue Sang from Lee Lee's Restaurant

Ready for the big "loh"

Imported cook from Soo Kee, Jalan Imbi.
KL's loss is Auckland's gain!

The plates for the "Ngau Yoke Hoh Fun" had a mirror finish when it was over.

Lum's Ikan Bakar.

Not only has she got to catch the fish, she had to cook them as well!

This is the freshest Ikan Bakar ever cooked in NZ. There wasn't much left when I got there. Should not have shashimi that big mackerel on the boat!

Of course, the lamb on the spit! It was juicy and tender. This is the big change from our traditional Chinese New Year dinner. Yummy. Already there is talk of another one next year.

That is after everyone had a look at Sabrena's pet "suckling pig"!

Now for the desert.

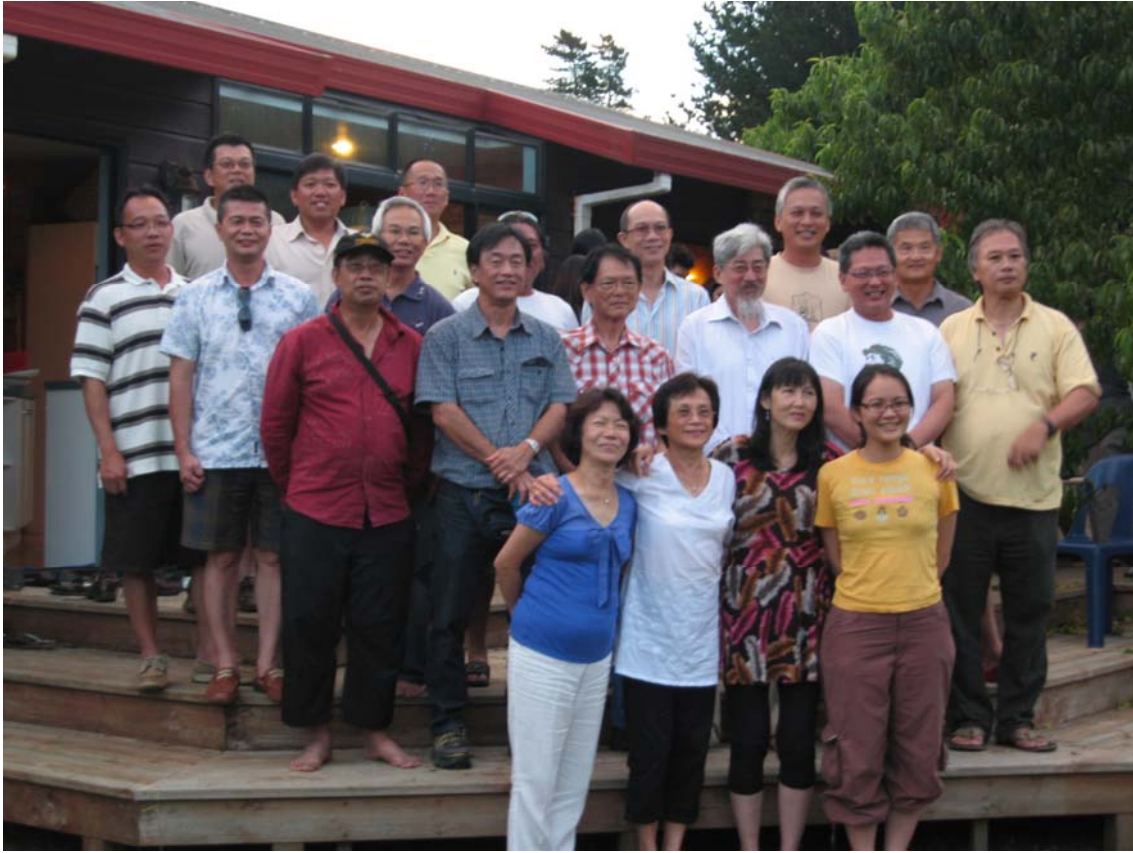

No words can describe the desert.

Shut up and just enjoy.

The crowd minus the kids

The crowd minus all the non MBSian – The school song was sung. Go Forward MBS!
A bottle of Cloudy Bay will be rewarded to the first person who can name all of them.

The youngest and the oldest MBSian in the party were visiting New Zealand.
